Little Red Riding Hood

GIFT IN A TIN

It's Storytime! Read through the story of Little Red Riding Hood and use the wooden characters to act out the tale as you read it through. Happy reading!

Once upon a time, there was a little girl who lived in a village close to the forest. Whenever she went out, she wore a bright red cloak, so everyone in the village called her Little Red Riding Hood.

One sunny morning, Little Red Riding Hood asked her mother if she could go to visit her grandmother who lived in the forest as she had not seen her for some time.

"That's a lovely idea," said her mother and they packed a nice basket of treats for Little Red Riding Hood to take to her grandmother.

Once the basket was packed and ready, she put on her red cloak and kissed her mother goodbye. "Remember, go straight to Grandma's house," her mother cautioned. "Don't dawdle along the way and remember not to talk to strangers!" "Don't worry" said Little Red Riding Hood. "I'll be very careful."

But when she was walking Little Red Riding Hood noticed some beautiful flowers in the woods, and she forgot her promise to her mother. She picked a few, then watched some butterflies as they flew, and even watched the rabbits and they danced in a clearing in the trees. She was enjoying the warm summer day so much, that she didn't notice a dark shadow approaching out of the forest behind her...

Suddenly, a wolf appeared beside her. "What are you doing here in the forest, little girl?" he asked in a voice as friendly as he could muster up.

"I'm on my way to see my Grandma who lives in the forest, near the stream," replied Little Red Riding Hood.

Then she realized how late she was and quickly excused herself, rushing down the path towards her Grandma's house.

In the meantime, the sly wolf took a shortcut and a little while later, the wolf, a little out of breath from running, he arrived at Grandma's and knocked gently on the front door.

"Oh hello my dear!" she called. "Come in, come in! I was worried that something had happened to you on the way." thinking that the knock on the door was her granddaughter.

The sly wolf let himself in and poor Granny didn't even have time to say another word, before he gobbled her right up!

The wolf let out a satisfied burp, and then he looked through her wardrobe to find a nightgown that fitted him. He chose a cosy pale blue one with a white sleeping cap and for good measure, he even had the cheek to put some of Granny's perfume behind his pointy ears.

Just a few minutes later, Red Riding Hood arrived and she knocked on the front door. The wolf jumped into Granny's bed and pulled the covers until they covered his nose. "Who is there?" he called out in a cackly Granny-like voice.

"It's your grand-daughter, Little Red Riding Hood," called the little girl. "Oh how lovely! Do come in, my dear girl," croaked the wolf.

But when Little Red Riding Hood entered the her grandmothers cottage, she could scarcely recognize her. "Granny, your voice sounds rather odd today! Is something the matter?" she asked.

"Oh, I just have a bit of a cold," croaked the wolf adding a cough at the end to prove his point. Little Red Riding Hood moved a little closer to the bed so she could see her grand-mother better. "Oh Granny, what big ears you have!" she said rather alarmed.

"The better to hear you with, my dear," replied the wolf.
